

Neil returns as Mr. Music Man

Pupils at the Downs School, Compton, welcomed back old boy Neil Martin yesterday afternoon in his capacity as clarinetist with the Purbright Band.

Neil, who left the school last July, comes from Chieveley and is at present training with the Guards' Junior Musicians' Band at Purbright.

Six foot four inches tall, Neil hopes eventually to play with a senior band in one of the Guards' regiments.

He was an outstanding pupil at both clarinet and viola during his time at the Downs School, and he and his colleagues in the Purbright Band were enthusiastically received by pupils at the school yesterday.

© 1978, The Daily Telegraph, London